The AMF, AFG and SFAF provide small and mid-sized companies keys to financial reporting that meets market's expectations

Published on February 2, 2017

Financial reporting is a market-visibility issue for small and mid-sized companies. That is why the AMF (French financial markets authority), AFG (French financial management association) and SFAF (French society of financial analysts) have compiled a few "keys" to help mid-caps better understand and meet the expectations of financial analysts and institutional investors.
